

BEST HEALTHCARE ADVISER

WINNER INCORPORATE BENEFITS

Incorporate Benefits impressed our expert judging panel with a submission that highlighted its ability to align health and wellbeing programmes seamlessly with company culture.

Judges were particularly impressed by its commitment to behaviour and habit change, demonstrated through its case study, which involved introducing a behaviourally-driven PMI provider, a cash plan and an EAP to a small manufacturing company with 45 employees. The firm demonstrated how the implementation of its benefits programme led to a step-change in employee behaviour, resulting in changes to both mental and physical health.

Incorporate Benefits also impressed judges with a commitment to consistency of service and an attention to detail that extends to quarterly client review meetings and early engagement on premium changes. Judges also liked the extent of the monthly professional development training received by all advisers.

Judges applauded what was described as an 'interesting and unique submission' from a fast-growing firm offering employers a holistic consultancy approach to healthcare. Congratulations to Incorporate Benefits – Best Healthcare Adviser 2019.

• Incorporate Benefits' Jason Marley receives the award from Russell Kane and Corporate Adviser deputy editor Emma Simon